Here's a soccer story from the Associated Press:

Next up for Wrexham is world champion Chelsea.

While a place in the quarterfinals of the FA Cup is at stake when the teams face off at the Racecourse Ground on Saturday, for Wrexham it will be a timely gauge of just how "Premier League-ready" it is.

Speaking to industry experts last week, Wrexham CEO Michael Williamson said the Welsh club — owned by actors Ryan Reynolds and Rob McElhenney — would be ready for the top flight of English soccer when the time comes. Even as soon as next season, just three years after it was playing non-league.
