How to Maximize the Effectiveness of the Melara Max Pillow

The Melara Max Pillow is engineered to support optimal sleep posture, spinal alignment, and full-body comfort. But like any wellness product, you'll get the best results when you use it correctly. Follow these simple yet effective tips to ensure you're making the most of your ergonomic pillow.

1. Position the Pillow According to Your Sleep Style

Different sleeping positions require different levels of support. Here's how to position your Melara Max Pillow for best results:

Side Sleepers: The pillow should fill the space between your ear and the mattress, keeping your head level with your spine. Adjust the pillow height if needed to prevent tilting and avoid unnecessary strain.

Back Sleepers: The Melara Max Pillow naturally supports the neck's curve, helping you maintain a neutral spine position. Position your head in the central groove for optimal comfort and support.

Stomach Sleepers: Use the pillow's lowest height profile to minimize neck twist and reduce strain. This flatter setup helps keep your spine in alignment.

2. Allow Time for Adjustment

Switching from a standard pillow to an ergonomic one can take some getting used to. For the first few nights, the firmness or contour may feel different. This is normal. Most users report noticeable improvement in comfort, pain relief, and sleep quality within 3 to 7 days.

3. Maintain Pillow Hygiene

The Melara Max Pillow comes with a removable, breathable cover that's easy to clean. Wash the cover regularly to keep your pillow free of allergens, sweat, and skin oils. This not only maintains freshness but also promotes a healthier sleep environment.

Pro tip: Never wash the memory foam itself—spot clean if necessary and allow it to air dry.
